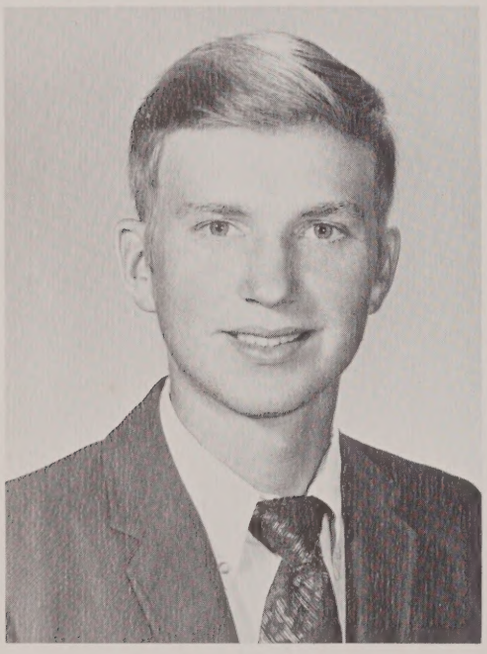
IN MEMORIAM

Though four years have passed since Janet Peckham's death, we still remember her as a quiet and unassuming girl, whose ways we have missed. We regret that she will not be with us as part of the graduating class.



More than anything else, Edward Kadaras could be characterized by a quiet, yet restless enthusiasm that swept through all of his activities with a zest for life. The class of '71 will miss that enthusiasm as we mourn his tragic and untimely death.

These hearts were woven of human joys and cares,
Washed marvellously with sorrow, swift to mirth.
The years had given them kindness. Dawn was theirs
And sunset, and the colors of the earth.
These had seen movement, and heard music; known
Slumber and walking; loved; gone proudly friended;
Felt the quick stir of wonder; sat alone;
Touched flowers and furs and cheeks. All this ended.

Ready To Face Almost Anything.

Not knowing what to expect but ready to face almost anything, the Class of 1971 entered Walpole High School. More than once we were led astray by the "overly helpful" upperclassmen who found it quite amusing to send innocent sophomores to the wrong locker rooms and classes. Being twenty minutes late for class was not unusual during that first nerve-racking week.

Is that really us?

Before we could earn the title of "high schoolers", we were initiated by the Senior Class at the Sophomore Initiation Dance in the fall. Who ever heard of dunking for apples in the middle of the gym or racing up and down the floor on tricycles and wagons or pushing peanuts with your nose the length of the room or sticking your nose in a bowl filled with whipped cream? The Class of '71 did! On the whole, it was an enjoyable evening for both Seniors and Sophomores.

The fall of 1968 was the beginning of a lively, spirited, and much improved Rebel football team under the new leadership of BSL Coach of the Year, John Lee. With an import straight from the heart of Dixie, the Rebels lived up to their name and wound up the season with a 4-4-1 record. And this was just the beginning of a strong and steady climb to the BSL Co-Championship in the fall of 1969.

Equally successful was the teamwork under our class officers: John Allen, President; Janice Capone, Vice-president; Ellie Petrovick, Secretary, and John Murphy, Treasurer, who sparked many activities . . . Our first endeavor was selling monogrammed stationery to parents, friends, and teachers. It was not uncommon to deliver the wrong stationery to the wrong people at the wrong place. However, it wasn't a total failure.

"There will be no school, all schools, all day in the town of Walpole," that was a current and happy refrain that turned blissfully happy students back to the comfort of their beds on many a snowy morn. Snow totaling 60-odd inches added up to only seven days of school during the entire month. It was definitely a winter to remember.

Our first social event, the Sophomore Class Dance "Faces", was held on May 30, 1969. The walls were decorated with every imaginable kind of face: boy faces, girl faces, yellow faces, black faces, red faces, clown faces, funny faces, sad faces, serious faces. The Backstreet Journal provided the music for a very entertaining evening.

To end the year on a positive note, as well as to add to our treasury, the Class of 1971 held a car wash behind the fire station. It is questionable how clean we got the cars, but we certainly did a good job on ourselves.

As summer neared, we joined ranks with the Junior Class on a trip to Horseneck Beach one hot, blistering Monday, already having said goodbye to the Class of '69.

A Year To Remember

The Class of 71's second year at Walpole High was definitely one to remember. For the first time the Rebel football team finished the season as co-champs of the Bay State League, ending with a superb 8-1-0 record.

Football was not the only interest that fall. On October 15, students at Walpole High School joined with the rest of the nation in a peaceful and responsible demonstration to express their opposition to the Vietnam War. Each class attended a two-period assembly which included a brief history of the war followed by a panel discussion. To many, the Moratorium was the first relevant assembly to take place in Walpole High in a long time.

Our junior class officers were: President, Rick Stearns; Vice-president, Janice Capone; Secretary, Patti Hyland; Treasurer, John Murphy. Under their leadership we organized our first major function, "Soul of '71", which was held on December 5th. Parents, teachers, and fellow students were invited to join in a casserole supper in the cafeteria, prepared and served by a nervous crew of junior girls. Following the dinner everyone went to the auditorium and found out what life was really like at WHS. Among the super stars were Billy MacNeil with his many impersonations and disguises, Dicky Travers and his ballet troupe, and Dave Lewandos and George Ford as library security guards. It was certainly an enlightening evening for many of our parents!

The winter of 69-70 was a hockey year also. The varsity squad qualified for the Quarter-Finals, and busloads of faithful fans followed our team into Boston Garden to view the action-packed contest.

The Student Council finally succeeded in abolishing the traditional dress code. Everyone was quite pleased with this move, as the girls were now able to wear slacks and the boys were allowed to let their hair grow.

Despite the spectral disapproval of the Capulets and Montagues, a solemn Romeo and Juliet lead the Grand March.

"A Time For Love"

In March we held a rock concert featuring "The Odyssey," "The Sounds of Our World," and "The Morelocks." The three groups entertained an auditorium of students who seemed to enjoy the first rock concert ever held at the high school.

Students and faculty at Walpole High School mourned the death of Mr. Riley in March of 1970. It was unfortunate that most students did not get to know Mr. Riley unless they had skipped a class or received a detention. He was a man respected by all and will not be forgotten for a long time to come.

The Class of '71 chose "A Time For Love" as their theme for the Junior Prom held at the Blue Hills Country Club. Traditionally, it started to rain but no one seemed to notice the drizzle. All the couples felt like Romeo and Juliet in the House of Capulet as they danced to the orchestra's sentimental music. The mural of the balcony scene, the rose on every table, the silver House of Capulet charms, all added to the beautiful and romantic atmosphere.

In the spring the students at Walpole High responded to the U.S. invasion of Cambodia with an all-day program. Among the guest speakers were Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, Bert Yaffe, Richard Levy, and representatives from the Student Mobilization Committee and Young Americans for Freedom. It was a very informative day for all who attended the program.

As summer neared, another class trip to Horseneck Beach and Lincoln Park was planned, but was cancelled because of bad weather. This marked the end of another school year and we awaited September to start our final year at WHS.

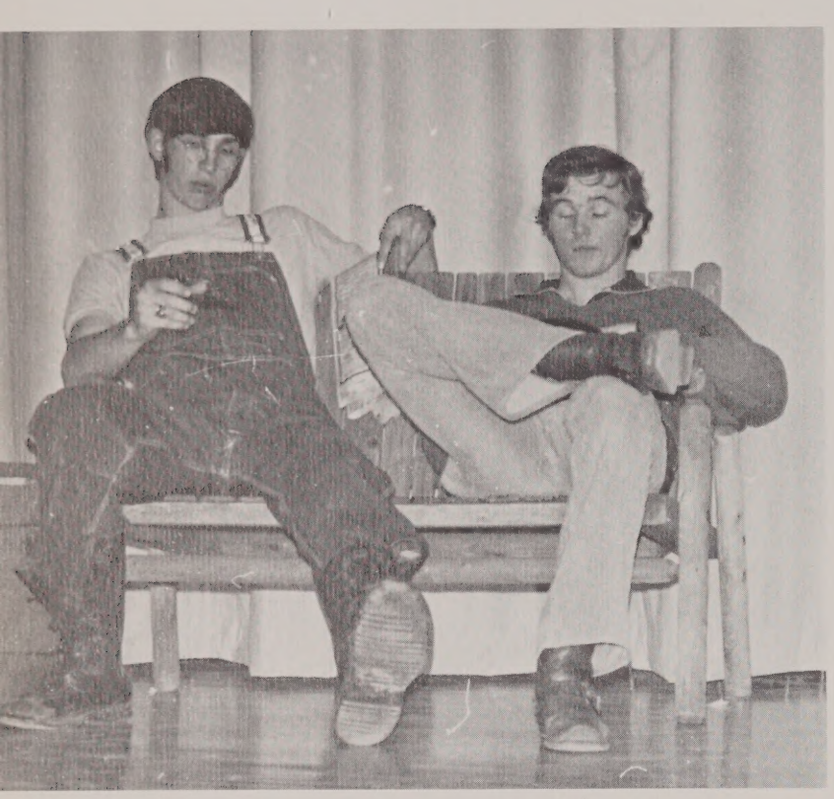
Mr. Hobbs' Vacation—A Bad Trip



"Mornin' Elwell", "Mornin' Clyde."

For the first time in Walpole High history the senior class play was held for three nights — April 1st, 2nd, and 3rd. "Mr. Hobbs' Vacation", a Greta Stone-and-Phillip Preston production, typified an American family's fruitless attempts to get away from it all and find solitude on the Maine coast. Instead of the serenity they had anticipated, the Hobbses were plagued by an antiquated pump, a backed-up cesspool, and an unending stream of uninvited guests. As Hobbsey summed it up, "You think of it as hopeless confusion but it's not that at all — it's life and vitality."

"A little closer around the ears, please."

"Thursday Night At The Movies," held on May 13th, starred all-time favorites W. C. Fields, Charlie Chaplin, and Laurel and Hardy. While the movies were being shown in the auditorium, seniors were busy preparing refreshments for parents and kids. During the intermission senior cooks, waiters, and waitresses made and served pizza while Walpole's Barbershop Quartet entertained. To add to the atmosphere the girls dressed as Italian peasants and the guys wore garters on their arms.

The margin of profit ($100 and some odd dollars) was impressive especially in light of the fact that after the sounds of razor-sharp harmony had died away, and after all the crepe barber pole decorations had been swept into trash barrels, two very substantial cases of pizza were still on ice. The moral of the story: not-so-hot planning many times brings frozen assets.

The Grand March

Tradition Broken—No Puddles, Umbrellas or Frizzies!

"Where Do We Begin?" The Junior Prom commenced with its traditional chicken dinner at the Blue Hill Country Club Tuesday night, April 20, 1971. Unlike past years, ominous clouds and drizzle did not prevail, and girls were saved from splashing puddles, dripping umbrellas, and frizzy, fallen curls which had dampened many spirits. Tradition was also broken because the Boston Bruins did not play that Tuesday evening. As a result, many girls were able to keep their escorts from running downstairs every five minutes to find out the score.

During the course of the evening, songs were dedicated to the seniors: "It Don't Matter to Me," "Love Story," "Tonight." Don Ahearn and his orchestra livened up the atmosphere more than once by playing "Ha Na La Kina" to the grapevine steps of the dancers.

Before the Grand March at 10:00 P.M., led by the Junior class officers, Varla Gelineau was selected Queen of The Prom. The other five finalists included Sue Marzul, Jackie Jones, Lee Ann Flodstrom, Debbie Betro, and Margaret Keyworth.

As the clock struck twelve, all the Mustangs, Cougars, and Jaguars turned back into pumpkins and all the beautiful Cinderellas went back to their menial tasks.

President John Prior welcomed a capacity crowd of teachers, parents, and seniors to Class Night, which was held on Friday evening, June 4, at 8 o'clock. Ellie Groden, Rosa Stefansson, and Patty Kelter read the class histories which set the scenes for the various skits that were performed to show parents what's really happening at WHS (?). Highlights of the past three years were acted out and many faces appeared and disappeared reciting "inside" jokes in Rowan-and-Martin sytle behind openings in the mural, "Class of '71 Laughs Out."

Awards were presented to students for both athletic and scholarly achievements and it was not uncommon for them to accept their awards dressed in almost every imaginable outfit. After faculty superlatives were read in Emmy fashion, Rosa and Susan said "Good-night" in those voices that will haunt us for many years to come.

The final accolade to the Class of '71 was in their gifts which were presented to the class sponsors, Mrs. Sorenson and Mr. Wassel.

An ill-timed thunderstorm crowded perspiring parents and guests into a well-insulated gym where a sub-tropical climate wilted mortar boards and made gowns cling to sweaty seniors whose immediate goal was not college or business school — but fresh air. As the audience mopped their foreheads, Mr. Stacy awarded the diplomas and gave his final advice to the senior class. Steve Bilotta, junior class president, accepted the class gift, a water cooler, a very apropos gift on June 8. Honor essayists, Nancy Johnson, Donna Stacy, Jim Alward, and Mark Anderson discussed the various aspects of freedom amidst the thunder, the sound of rain coming in through the open windows, flashes of lightning, and a faulty mike that tuned in and out quite frequently throughout their speeches. Although it was not the most pleasant graduation, the memories of that hot night, Bob Dolan's "Teaberry Shuffle," and the cramped quarters will never be forgotten.

To further diminish the barriers between the students, faculty, and administration a faculty senate, composed of a wide variety of teachers, was initiated this year. The main purpose of the senate is to review the present school policies and to revise those that are in need of change. The major issue that confronted the senate was the situation of final examinations. Many feel that finals are both hypocritical and irrelevant, the way they are presently administered. Some, however, still look at finals as an important and beneficial experience. As a result of the conflicts the foundations have only been laid for a revised system.

As in the past the administration was forced to cope with many agonizing situations which included a number of "monotonous" bombscares peace gatherings at the dam and students visiting McDonald's. As all things must pass, someday the conflicts between the administration and the students will somehow be resolved.

Decisions To Make

With Mr. Ruscitti's good-bye, the school lost a good man and was without much needed extra counseling. Thanks to Mrs. Cecchi being ever present, however, the school managed to survive while the counselors were usually out on business, or occasionally in conference. Near the end of the year, though, Walpole welcomed the late arrival of Mr. Kelly as Mr. Ruscitti's replacement. Like a new puppy replacing a beloved pet, Mr. Kelly was gradually accepted by the students.

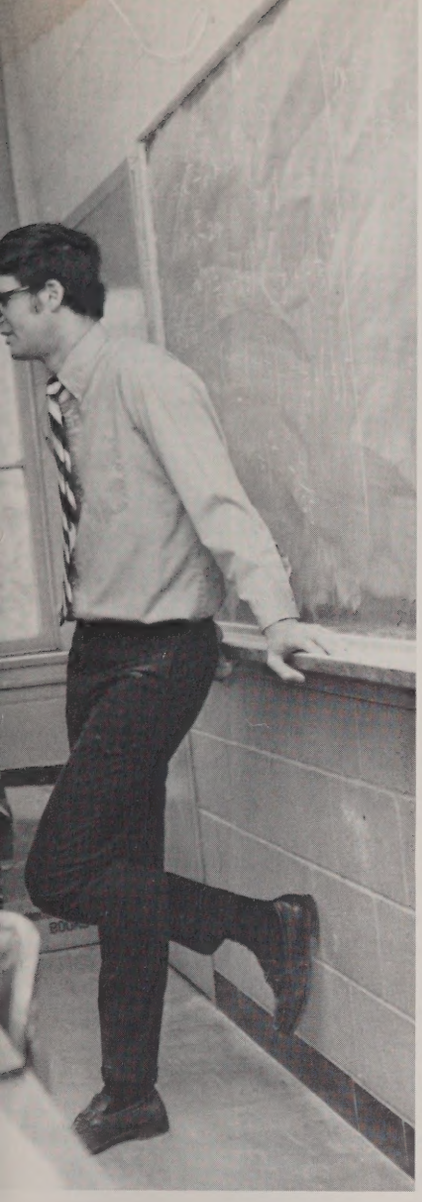
The Mathematical Wizards Bewilder The Students

Gee, did you hear the one about the lightbulb?

Mr. Quinn "practices what he preaches."



This year, as in many past, the mathematical wizards of Section B have x's and y's fogging the minds of bewildered students. Time may pass, but Mr. Foley keeps on trying to convince his junior honors class that mathematical induction is relevant, while Mr. Quinn struggles to cope with "senioritis".

Breaking with tradition, the trial-based computer programming course, along with Math Topics, became accredited courses this year, adding to the wide variety of courses now in existence.

Only through a great dedication and many threats could Miss Radzwill's cortege teach dumbfounded sophomores and disinterested seniors the basics of math. Some will fail, most will pass, but all will leave these classrooms with a sense of relief, if not satisfaction.

Radical Change Sweeps

Snow jobs in 107.

Traditionally the old sage voiced at least a partial truth when he spoke of some radical change as " . . . the new broom that sweeps clean." He might have been cautioned that it could also make people bristle. Fortunately, the seven out of ten new teachers in the department have managed to make a clean sweep of it together. Only minor dust storms have been raised and those from such colorful outside guests as: a local police officer, a member of the F.B.I., a member of the state department, and an exchange teacher from England who is presently teaching at Sharon High School.

Perhaps one of the most significant and ambitious class projects was the one tackled by Mr. Murphy's juniors in their 20th Century Class. They worked on an economic case study on the problems that the Boston Patriots faced in trying to find a home for their new stadium.

Hopefully, next year's Social Studies' team will suffer only minor changes because of some new brooms breaking in periods might prove to be the last straw.

Minor Miscalcu

By definition, science is the knowledge gained through observations, experimentation, and correct thinking. As one walks the corridors of W.H.S., one can sense this knowledge through sight, sound, and odor. The imaginations of these junior scientists overcome and physical barriers they might encounter. There is always an "unusual" odor as one passes the doors of 215, because of minor miscalculations, but Mr. Preston and Mrs. Sorenson plod on, explaining the mistakes and repeating the experiments until the correct results are reached. A year never passes without a slinky escaping from the physics lab, or the need for smelling salts to revive a weak-stomached female biologist. Miss Hale tries to impress the importance of health to her senior physiology classes, as Mr. Wassel explains "rocks and stuff . . ." to the earth science classes. Observations may be muddled and correct thinking sometimes doubtful, but students learn the meaning of perseverance and self-reliance through many hours of experimentation.

Through the constant toil of Mr. Paglari and his loyal army of generals, foreign languages are becoming more interesting and less difficult to learn. The cultures of Germany, France, and Spain are imitated in the classroom through foreign cuisine, literature and history.

Access to the language lab allows the student to make his own tapes and therefore hear his accent (which usually leaves much to be desired). As a result of this, the students at Walpole High School will charge toward the future with a solid bilingual background.

The Business Department had its usual busy year. Students helped with many projects around the school including typing for both the newspaper and the REBEL.

Mrs. Shaer and Miss Tybinka left during the year and were replaced by Mrs. Sjoland and Miss Boyer. Mrs. Simino, working very hard with senior business students to achieve employable levels of skill, broke the routine by taking a field trip to Boston to visit the IBM and N.E. Life Insurance companies.

Mr. Valaitis and Mrs. Kelleher were investigating and planning for the Work-Experience program which will be initiated in September, 1971. Fifteen students who have evidenced interest in their project will leave school each day at 12:30 to report to work. Business firms in the area are providing the opportunity for part time employment for the novice office worker. Students have been selected for this program on the basis of their attendance, grades, and teacher's recommendations.

Homemakers Of Tomorrow

Janet and Paula give a glimpse of the past and present.

It used to be that two of the most underrated courses at Walpole High School were Industrial Arts and Home Economics. It's not so now! Since both subjects complement the basic studies and prepare the student for everyday living, they have finally come into their own. For example, on Tuesday May 11, the high school homemaking classes presented a "Yesterday & Today Fashion Show." Debbie Williams was the director and the commentators were Becky McCuiston and Janet DeCristofaro.

Twelve girls modelled dresses and coats, many of which had been worn by their relatives in the past. A very unusual item was an old-fashioned swimsuit, modelled by Kathy Quinlan. Next came the clothes of Today all made by the girls who modelled them. A highlight of the evening was the appearance of Marcia Bannon and her three young nieces. All four of the outfits modelled were made by Marcia.

At the end of the show refreshments made by the cooking classes were served.

Student Council

The 1971 Walpole Student Council began a fresh start this year with new officers Rick Stearns, Tony Marinelli, Jackie Jones, and Mary Lou Dunn. Enthusiastic members who began meeting during the summer made possible a welcoming program for Sophomores on Orientation Day. In addition to sponsoring such traditional activities as the Autumn Queen Dance, Homecoming Day, and a pep rally, the Council organized a successful book fair, sponsored drives for CARE and Globe Santa, and campaigned for a new comprehensive high school. Later in the year the Council organized a "Clean-up Day" with repainting doors as the major activity, and worked on new proposals for the study hall and final exam systems. All funds raised during the year went towards scholarships which were awarded at Graduation.

Early in December, the council established a new program which freed students from the ritual of attendance check, assigned seating, and imposed silence. Students now could choose between attending a formal study in the cafeteria, an informal seminar in the auditorium, or the media center. Although some students complained that this was still not enough liberty, most recognized that it was an improvement over the old system and a step in the right direction. Much progress was also made in a most vital area – communication between students and the administration. This year's council recognized that workable responses to student demands can only be achieved through cooperation with the administration. While examining the study hall situation, a small discussion group composed of both council members and officers of the administration met weekly to exchange ideas. Later in the year, two members of the council assisted at a meeting of the newly formed Faculty Senate. They were able to submit proposals and participate in the discussion – a promise of real future cooperation.

Mr. Gieb gives some helpful advice.

For the students who participated in the Loon Project this year it was a time of self-discovery in testing one's physical and mental resistance against the forces of nature. The process of learning to react and function under stress surfaced one's highest and lowest emotions — the agony of complete physical exhaustion — the happiness and satisfaction of self-accomplishment. The Loon Project was a time of being alone with nature and watching the animals and birds as they mock man's clumsy adaptation to their own world . . . working together as a group and learning to appreciate people for what they really are . . . discovering life in a new perspective.

Members of the Class of '71 Display Individual Talents

This year, for the first time, Walpole High School was able to induct 29 seniors to the National Honorary Society. At the solemn installation in early March, parents and fellow seniors looked on as new members accepted the pledge of the society and were congratulated by Mr. Monbouquette, principal of Norwood High. Later, on April 2, the group attended a convention at Wheaton College and observed seminars on such topics as "Propaganda in Education" and "The Day God Died".

In addition to having maintained a high level of scholastic achievement, each of the students selected for the society were judged on the basis of character, leadership, and service. Praise and well-deserved congratulations are in order for these students who have demonstrated that with a certain amount of extra effort and determination one can develop his potentials successfully.

Certificates are handed out at National Honor Ceremony.

For the first time in over two years Walpole High School produced its own newspaper. Credit should be given to the Journalism classes for publishing the paper on regular schedule. The two classes established their reliability when Mr. Stacy oversaw the printing of the first issue, even though the presses kept rolling past 11 p.m. The staff later managed to fast talk its way into the bookroom between rooms 201 and 202, which became the publishing headquarters of the REBELLION.

The paper itself was a quality item. Numerous editorials and reports, often spiced with a satiric edge, encompassed many varied aspects of life at Walpole High, and displayed a colorful cross section of student opinion. For only 10¢ the REBELLION offered something of interest to almost every student.

In complete contrast to the familiar "library concentration camp" of Walpole High, the Media Center emerged this year as a student center of activity. For the student, it was his salvation from the rigid classroom structure, where he could relax and follow his own motivations. Activities ranged from such things as reclining in a corner, listening to music, and chatting with friends, to watching a film or even making one. Many students learned to use cameras and tape-recording equipment for special projects. To most students the atmosphere of freedom in the Media was a tremendous relief, and there were still a few who came here to study!

Their long-hoped-for dream was finally realized when the Concert Band won the coveted first place for Class B in the S.M.M.A. Festival this May. This event climaxed a variety of contributions to the world of music which had their first discordant beginnings in Mr. Dunn's hatchery in Room 238. The end products of the incubation period were: a spring concert which was performed for the community, an exchange concert with Martha's Vineyard, and a graduation performance.

The Concert Band's fraternal twin kept equally busy. The chorus with forty well-modulated voices sang in and out of Walpole — ambassadors on a goodwill tour. At Christmas they shared with those confined to rest homes in the area. Their longest tour from home, a performance on May 22 at Martha's Vineyard Regional High School, was something of an exchange visit with that school whose Minnesingers had presented their program here on May 5.

Students Get Together In . . .

On December 11 a group of over 40 students performing in the musical "Bye Bye Birdie" produced a revolutionary success in that it proved to everyone that a group of young people really could get together and "make it happen." For the audience, which flocked to the show despite a heavy blizzard, the evening was filled with laughter, good music, and fine dramatic performances. For the cast, directors, and stage crew this night was the exciting climax of many weeks of long rehearsals and hectic preparations. The credit for the success of "Bye Bye Birdie" can only be given to the students themselves. Their enthusiasm which spread throughout the school and community caused people to recognize "Bye Bye Birdie" as being the unique communal effort that it was.

In Other Words . . .

The German Club, better known as the Weiner's Schnitzels, had quite an active year. Headed by Miss Soderberg, the group was comprised mainly of students who visited Germany last summer. Those experiences were retold before the Norwood High German Club.

In an assembly relating their experiences to the Norwood High School German Club, Ricky Reece, Richard Allen, David Ishihara, Kathy Jordan, and Susan Anderson showed slides of Heilbron, the German hamlet where they stayed. Other activities during the year included a dinner party at the home of Susan Anderson where German specialties such as wurst and sauerkraut, beef stroganoff, cheese fondue and hot beer soup were served.

The club of 40 students, supervised by Mr. Paglari and Miss Connolly, earned the bus and hotel fees by means of two successful candy sales, a spaghetti supper, and a bake sale. The trip to the capital city included a tour of the Pan American Union, a trip to both Mount Vernon and Annapolis, a visit to the National Art Gallery, and even some spare time to eat and sleep. Display Wide Interests

A wide variety of activity groups were formed by students who displayed a strong social consciousness and a positive desire to develop their talents in preparation for the future. Mr. Brown of the Science Department grouped students together in a determined effort to eliminate the drug problem among youth in Walpole. The Ecology Action Team sponsored a massive and quite successful clean up of the Neponset River, an endeavor which enabled interested persons to take positive action in the fight against pollution. In an effort to develop leadership potentials, a small group of junior and senior girls gave up a few free periods a week to aid Miss Singer with her sophomore gym classes by taking attendance, evaluating skill tests, demonstrating skills, and refereeing games. Members of another small but enthusiastic group, the Ski Club, improved their skills by journeying weekly to Blue Hills for professional instruction. In addition, students with a concern for their future careers joined the Business Club and Future Teachers Club. The latter group gained valuable experience by acting as teacher aides weekly at the Plimpton School.

Room 208, home of the infamous 1971 Rebel Yearbook Staff, was a hubbub of activity this year. With Mr. Schnorbus at the helm, the staff of about 15 members worked off and on throughout the day during their free periods.

There were, of course, the usual hazards such as taking pictures, writing copy, censoring senior profiles, making lay-outs, and attempting to meet deadlines, but the staff somehow overcame these obstacles and had plenty of opportunity for talking, fooling around, and falling out windows!

Rebels Surprise Everyone

Grrrr!

What happens when the prince is turned back into a frog? Ask Rebel Coach John Lee, his boys, or any member of the Rebel rousing coaching staff. They won't tell you; they'll show you!

Picked by most "experts" to revert to their losing ways, following what many called a "Cinderella Championship" in '69, the 1970 forces raised more than a few eyebrows.

From the gruelling three day sessions at Camp Greylag, until the final second on Turkey Day, the 1970 Rebels were a surprise to almost everyone, except themselves.

The Rebels first stymied the highly touted Milton eleven in the most lopsided 16-0 game imaginable. From there they would roll until thwarted by Belizeare's Braintree who was, of course, to waltz away with the title. Yet the Rebels rallied to the General's call, with only an 8-6 off day upset at the hands of South to further blemish their record.

It was in the Thanksgiving mud bath, however, that the Rebels captured their greatest glory. Mindful of the stinging upset one year before, the vindictive Rebels whipped the stubborn Spartans, 20-14.

The Rebel "D", led by hard hitting captain Bob Tryon, for the most part lived up to its reputation for stinginess. The Rebel offense proved more than potent, led by the star quarterback Gary Procaccini and end Jeff Smith as evidenced in the 36-0 shellacking of Dedham.

With a highly spirited and well experienced contingent of no less than 22 Juniors returning, along with a host of fine sophomores, the Rebel fortunes indeed look bright for 1971.

Anything can happen — but with Coach Lee whistling Dixie, you can look once again for the flag flying high over Rebel land.

Rebel Sidewinders Struggle Through Tough B.S.L. Campaign

This year's Rebel soccer team experienced a season that Coach Page described as "frustrating, to say the least." Led by senior co-captains Tim Carberry and T. J. Marinelli, the Rebel sidewinders displayed a sound defense, but were often plagued by an inconsistent offense. This inability to put the ball in the net cost the Rebels many closely fought, low-scoring games (4 games lost by 1-0 scores). There were, however, several bright spots to the somewhat disappointing season. The Rebels twice defeated arch-rival Norwood and also scored double victories over Milton.

The majority of the team were underclassmen, including junior Dave Lipsett, who emerged as one of the best all-around players in the B.S.L. Paul Belletti, another junior, turned in some sparkling goaltending during the second half of the season and should be a strong fixture in the Rebel nets next season. Coach Page was pleased that the team's final record was better than last year's and feels that the experience gained by the underclassmen this season will generate more success in the future.

Fleet Footed Rebels Cop First Winning Season

After years of frustration, the 1970 Rebel Harriers captured the first winning season in Walpole cross country histroy. Led by senior co-captains George Ford and Pete Phillipps, the Rebel compiled an impressive 6-3 slate. The two co-captains, along with juniors Steve Kiley, Mike Crehan, and Rick Reese, provided the Rebels with a strong nucleus of runners.

The boys created quite a stir as they took their first six meets in a row, and vaulted into a first place tie with Needham. The big showdown came against that same Needham team and hopes for a Rebel victory ran high. Needham proved to be simply too strong, however, and the Rebels suffered their first defeat of the season. Disheartened by this loss, they were unable to regain the momentum they had originally had, and proceeded to drop their final two encounters. In spite of this, it was one of the most successful cross country seasons Walpole has ever enjoyed, and it stirred some interest in a sport that, in the past, seldom succeeded at doing so.

Porkers Rejoice

The 1970 field hockey season began with a week of valuable training at the Merestead Camp for Hockey and Lacrosse in Maine. The team learned the in's and out's of the game from experts and returned to Walpole's rocky field with the know-how and determination to win. Behind the coaching of Miss Brainard and Miss Schneider, who drilled the team with motherly persuasion, they secured an 7-0-1 record which drew the shout, "We're number one!"

The Porker victory streak began with two key games against Needham and Braintree (Comical "psych-ups" on buses and a welcomed turn-out of rooters spurred the team on). The sharp defense allowed only one goal, and although the swift forwards had the record low of goals for a championship team, their constant drive and "tackling-back" reduced the opponent's attack to a minimum.

The JV championship was assured by fleet new "pork" and a scoring punch of 25.

Highlights of the season were: a "Redwing" supper and European slides at Mother Porker's apartment, a champagne party, a banquet at Sandy's, and a farcial field hockey game against the parents (Porkers squeezed by with a 1-0 victory).

The rough climb towards first place sparked friendship, unity, and a championship team. With experienced juniors and aggressive sophomores heading the ranks, coaches and players eagerly await another season. Victory Porkers!

Girl Gymnasts

Walpole High School went all out this year by entering their first girls' gymnastic team in the Bay State League. Each meet consisted of four events: floor exercise, balance beam, vaulting, and uneven parallel bars – with four girls competing in each event.

The first year in competition always brings problems and the gymnastic team's was no exception. Because of a transfer of coaches the team got off to a late start and then lost one of its top performers, Captain Fran Carver, when she broke her ankle. The girls, showing much determination and enthusiasm, bounced back and put forth a great effort. Although failing to win a meet, consistent improvement in individual and team scores made the season quite successful. Senior Susan Conroy and junior Judy MacDonald were the top performers on the team. Susan and Judy both excelled in balance beam and floor exercise while Judy was also the top performer on the unevens.

Around The Rim

Girls' basketball, this year, was exciting – and at times very frustrating. The team was constantly plagued by a ball that went around the rim and – OUT! Despite this, and after a loss to Braintree in their first league game, the team showed tremendous determination in the games that followed. Experience and a solid defense, coupled with the enthusiasm of the spectators and the players' parents (with their half-time hors d'oeuvres), spurred the girls on to win all but two of their remaining games. Although those two games against Needham and Framingham North were lost offensively, the defense was all there, handing Framingham North their lowest scoring game of the season. Teamwork, sparked by the steady performances of Georgia Frieswick (MVP), Chris Plasmati, and Janet Ellis, was the key to the team's third place finish in the BSL.

Although the team of 1972 will miss some of the skillful ball-handlers who graduate in the spring, the experience and improvement shown by this year's competition is sure to prove decisive in the battle for next year's championship.

The 1970-71 Rebel Hoop Campaign was at the same time both a disappointment and a success.

Having set their sights on a Tech Tourney berth, which had eluded them for so long, the boys had to settle for a 9-9 slate.

Inconsistency in shooting and the inability to keep cool under pressure cost the hoopsters several close games. However, the season was in many other respects a success, and had its brighter moments. When the boys put everything together they could match anyone in the league and they proved it by establishing a fourth place finish — the highest of any Rebel hoop team in over a decade. That enviable record earned the boys great respect, and proved for this year at least, that Walpole is no longer the doormat of the Bay State League.

Scrappy Rebels Fit to be "Tied"

As was expected, the 1970-71 hockey season truly was a rebuilding year. With but Jason Procaccini, Paul Allan, and Paul Pimental returning as lettermen, the Rebels were hurting for experience from the start. Yet, with some breaks, the picture could have been brighter. A close look at the record indicates the Rebels lost many close games and tied six games.

The defense, backboned by the fine goaltending of Paul Pimental, was fairly strong; whereas the offense proved to be rather impotent and lacked consistency.

One thing which the skaters did not lack, however, was guts. Game after game, the boys gave out their share of the lumps. Proof of this was highlighted in the 2-1 victory over Dedham and in our near victory, the 1-1 deadlock vs. Norwood. The latter was a classic, for the Rebels pounded the champs mentally and physically. If ever they deserved a win, it was here!

Although the campaign was a far cry from some of the banner years of old, few expected anything different, and who expected even a sixth place finish?

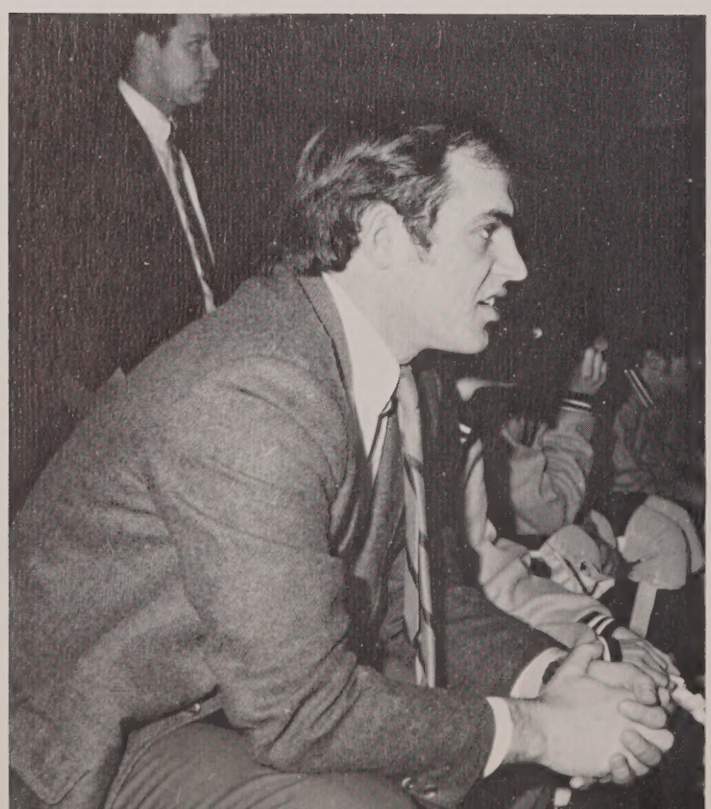
Rebels Share Championship With Norwood

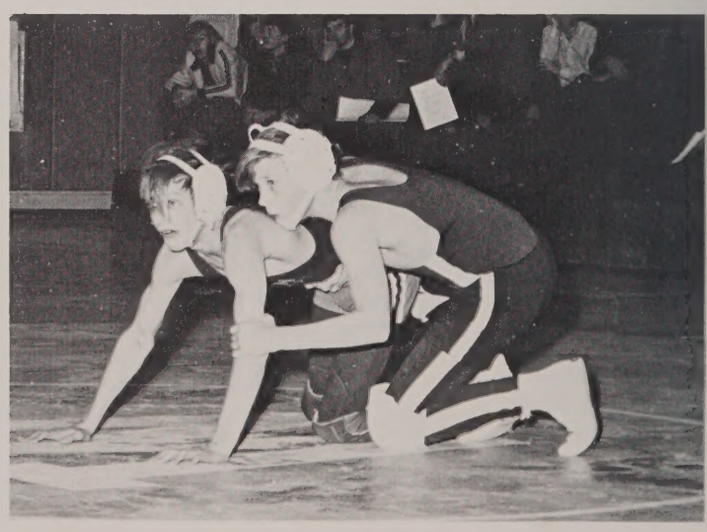
One can't say enough about this season's Rebel wrestling squad which finished co-champs w/Norwood.

Wrestling, not even a varsity sport five years ago, has rapidly developed into the premiere winter sport in Rebel country. The boys aroused amazing support in grappling their first crown. There was hardly a match all season in which the old gym wasn't packed. This was no surprise either, for as the season progressed the team remained unbeaten for fifteen straight matches.

The big showdown, and the biggest sporting event at Walpole High in some time, came vs. Norwood, a perennial state wrestling power. On a dismal Friday night 1000 plus jammed the main gym and nearly raised its roof as the boys squeaked out a 22-20 thriller. Who would have thought five years ago that wrestling would stimulate such excitement that we would have to turn 'em away?



Break him down Rich!



Get that fish!

Rebel Runners Never Say Die

The boys make full use of the "fantastic" facilities given them.

The 1970-71 Rebel Winter Track team was a perfect example of what can be accomplished through persistence, determination, and hustle. Although smaller in number than all of their opponents, the Rebels possessed a strong nucleus of underclassmen returning to action. Thoughts of a winning season weren't as far-fetched as they might have originally sounded. The boys' feelings of anticipation soon turned to ones of frustration, however, as misfortune followed them everywhere. After an opening victory over Archbishop Williams via the forfeit route, the Rebels proceeded to drop their next ten encounters. During this stretch a series of hardships hit the team which were hard to believe, let along accept. Illness and injury depleted the Rebels already thin ranks and they battled to the wire in five meets, only to lose all five in the relay.

It was at this point that the fortunes of the Rebel runners began to take an upward swing. Hard work, determination, and the return of some key squad members led to a big win over a hustling, but admittedly weak Matignon team. This victory restored the boys' confidence and they went on to win five out of their last seven meets. In the end, their record, although not a distinguished one, was truly representative of the boys' efforts. After a dismal start the Rebels managed to finish 7th in the twelve team Tri-County League and 6th in the nine team Bay State League. Not great, but not bad for a team that, at one point during the season, consisted of only thirteen boys.

Ski Team Shushed to Fourth Place Finish

The ski team, one of the most enthusiastic and determined teams in the school, had its best and longest season this year. Wednesdays of each week were set aside for race days, alternating slalom and cross-country. Tuesdays everyone trouped to Blue Hill Ski Area for racing lessons. The rest of the week was spent either skiing the cross-country course in the Town Forest or practicing slalom on "Walpole Mountain."

The team, coached by Mr. Richard Dunn and Mr. Phillip Preston, and captained by Bruce Billingham and Patti Hyland, competed with nine other teams. One of the most exciting competition this year was Walpole's first cross-country race when 120 skiers raced on the course in the Town Forest. The boys' team fared quite well finishing in fourth place, and the girls' also finished in fourth place, with the team placing fourth overall. This was the ski team's best year, moving up five places in the standings over last year.

Girls' Tennis

The girls' tennis team, built around four returning letterwinners, started off with high hopes of great achievement. As the season progressed, though, their hopes were gradually shattered. Suffering from erratic play, the girls lost their key matches (Braintree, Needham, Wellesley) and were only able to tie for third with Braintree in he Baystate League by posting a 5-3 record. The pattern of the season can best be described by saying that the girls were up on the days of practice and down on the days of matches. As the girls themselves said, "We were just oversyked and beat ourselves. We could have won."

'Could have won' is nowhere near 'Did win' but the girls are already expecting a great season next year. Their expectations seem valid too, because while most schools are facing a rebuilding season next year, Walpole is losing only one top player.

With the return of only three experienced players from the 1970 team, Walpole found it difficult to compete in the power-laden Bay State League as evidenced by the 0-13 record. However, with the experience gained during this year's competition the Tennis team can look forward to a greater profit in 1972.

Record Breaking Efforts

Track has never been known as one of Walpole's stronger sports. Its lack of popularity has constantly kept it in the shadows of the more glamorous sports. However, it has usually been found that the limited number of boys who have seen fit to dedicate their time to this sport have worked to keep the name of Walpole High Track respectable. This year's spring track squad was no different. Although boasting such outstanding individual athletes as Bob Tryon in the shot put and discus, Bill McNeil in the high jump, Kevin Smith in the javelin, Bob Travers in the 220 yard dash and broad jump, and Mike Crehan in the 2 mile; the team's lack of overall depth cost them a winning season. The boys' efforts earned them a record of 3 wins and 6 losses, with the victories coming over Milton, Norwood, and Framingham North. In addition to this, two school records were broken during the course of the season. Bob Tryon set a new school discus record with a throw of 146 feet and Kevin Smith set a new javelin record by throwing 183 feet. All in all it was a season of mixed emotions for the Rebel track team.

The girls' softball team, believe it or not, improved their standing six places over last year to gain the title of co-champs. This year's league record of 6-1 was a complete reversal over last year's 1-6 last place finish. From the very beginning the season looked quite bright as the girls in their first game defeated last year's champs Framingham South, with a come-from-behind-in-the-last-inning-drive. From then on it looked like clear sailing. Under the pitching of southpaw whiz Doreen Dower (MVP) and the bats of Nancy Stuber, Donna Macaione, and Captain Ellie Petrovick, the girls could do little wrong — or so they thought until they met Framingham North. In this game, though, the girls could do little right as they beat themselves with an overwhelming amount of errors. The girls didn't let this loss get them down, however, as they came back to beat Dedham and to clinch first place with Framingham North.

With an ERA of 1.58 even her own team couldn't hit her!

New Coach Brings Will To Win . . . Snappy Play

One thing this year's baseball prophets overlooked in casting Walpole's fate, was the arrival of their new coach Ralph White.

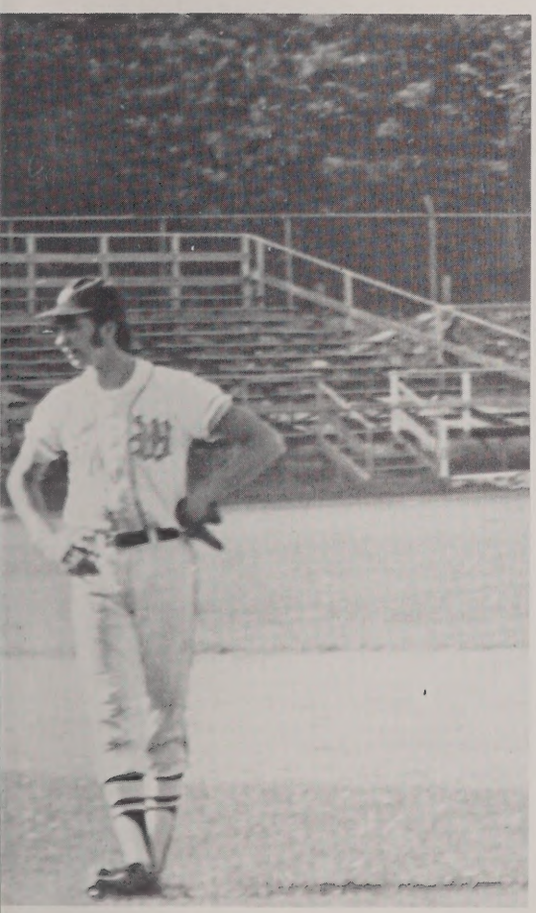
With but a few lettermen returning, the Rebels were supposed to have had plenty of problems. Yet White, a Legion coach, created great excitement as he brought to the Rebel diamond a keen baseball mind and a tremendous desire to win.

The boys started off with a bang by taking their first two and stayed near the top by playing good ball. Starting with John Murphy's nifty 1-0 whitewashing of Wellesley's Ace Adams, the Rebels streaked for the top, taking five in a row.

Yet the team fell victim to pitching woes and had only Murphy (with a 6-1 slate) to reply on as an experienced hurler. This lack of pitching depth and some untimely hitting resulted in a 5 game losing skid.

However, the spirited Rebels, never to give up, kept their heads up high and got back on their feet to capture their final two encounters.

The boys played team ball, exemplified in the game with Needham where they rallied to win with two gone in the ninth. It is this kind of team game which Coach White demands, and the excitement it generates should keep the game alive in Rebel country for years to come.



Coach White ponders the next strategic move.

Lippy finds his bearings.

One would think, after looking at the slate, that golfing was under par this year. Although the team record wasn't on par with those of some fine teams of recent years, the boys still enjoyed some success. With a little better luck in the sand traps and on the greens, the record might have easily been reversed to 6-3.

The team's two seniors Bill Shamon and Dave Perkins, playing 1 and 2 respectively, performed well throughout the season. Sophomore Bruce Farrell mustered the finest individual effort with a 6-3 mark. With his return and that of four more of this year's first seven golfers, all signs would point to a somewhat brighter outlook on the greens and fairways next season.

A Year Of Hibernation For Underclassmen

1970-71 was virtually a year of leisure for the underclassmen. To pay their dues, the sophomore class, led by President Susan Farrell, washed cars and sold pens for the school's benefit and their own profit. Steve Bilotta, the junior class president, was the motivator for the Junior Prom and Tag Day '70, where the boys "tagged" the girls and the following day the girls "tagged" the boys. This meant that the tagged individual was required to perform such tasks as carrying books, opening doors, and serving their master's detention.

However, on the whole, the underclassmen have been in hibernation as far as class functions are concerned. It may be that this past year's dormancy will only reveal more activities next year.

You're about to take a giant step forward into your future. We think we can make it the bright one you want it to be at New England Telephone. With a job that's every bit as big as your ambition. You see, we need people. With all kinds of talents. And especially, people who really want to get going with their future. And want to be rewarded with automatic raises. Your High School diploma is all the experience you need. If you want a job and a future that's tailored to your talent... along with unusually generous fringe benefits, stop in and see your guidance counselor. Ask when and where you can apply for an interview with the people who want to make your future as happy as you want it to be.
